I think allowing the use of cellular phones on airplanes is a terrible idea. Most passengers do not want to be distured by someone in the seat next to them talking on a cell phone while they are trying to work, sleep or just have some quite time. The potential for rude behavior to escalate into an unsafe confrontation is significant and is certainly not in concert with enhancing airplane safety.